

Fall 2018 Department of Political Science Speaker Series

Faculty and students are invited to a series of Tuesday talks 11:00-12:00. Sessions occur in Behavioral Sciences Building (BSB) Room 1115 unless otherwise noted.

- September 4 Daniel Ellsberg, formerly analyst with Rand Corporation and U.S. Department of Defense
“The Doomsday Machine: Confessions of a Nuclear War Planner”
Illinois Rooms, Student Center East, 12:30-2:00
Part of Provost’s Campus Conversation Series
(co-sponsored by Departments of Anthropology, Computer Science, Psychology, Great Cities Institute)
- September 25 William Howell, University of Chicago
“Making a President: Performance, Public Opinion, and the Transmutation of Donald J. Trump”
BSB 1115, 11:00-12:00
- October 9 Anthony S. Chen, Northwestern University
“The Forgotten Origins of Race-Conscious Affirmative Action in College Admissions”
BSB 1115, 11:00-12:00
- October 23 Salim Muwakkil, Senior Editor In These Times, Radio Host WVON
“Black Politics in the Age of Trump”
BSB 1115, 11:00-12:00
- November 8 “Post-Election Reflections” (note Thursday date)
BSB 1171, 12:00-1:00
- November 13 Ruth Block Rubin, University of Chicago
“Organizing at the Extreme: The Logic and Evolution of Hard Line Blocs in the U.S. House”
BSB 1115, 11:00-12:00

If you have any questions about the speaker series, please contact Alba Alexander at aalex@uic.edu.